Frank Bergman, designer of athletic programs, chosen as Man of Month

By JOHN C. BABIONE

Frank Bergman, program editor, consults the files for the latest information on the Pumas' next homecourt opponent.

Puma football and basketball fans were pleasantly surprised this season to see the outdated program sheets of the past replaced by bright, newsy, 12 page programs. The student who single-handedly effected this change has been selected as Stuff's Man of the Month for December-January; he is senior Frank Bergman, program editor for college athletics.

Many complaints were voiced this fall concerning the scanty and antiquated information provided by the football programs. The Student Council determined to provide more worthwhile programs, but needed someone to manage the undertaking. Frank volunteered, and has produced seven programs.

Frank personally spent many days in Rensselaer soliciting advertising for the new programs. In addition he writes all the program material and lays it out on the forms provided by the Coca Cola Company.

This is the second time that Frank has been named Man of the Month. He was selected last spring after designing and building the replica Eiffel Tower for the prom.

Frank, a native of Chicago, will receive a B.A. in English upon graduation in June. He hopes to go on for his masters degree at Northwestern Art School and become an interior decorator.

Other activities of the Man of the Month are: sports section editor of the 1961 Phase; varsity baseball last season; intramurals, including membership on last year's IM football champs; Chicago club; and student prefect.

Teaching nuns to leave SJC

by NORM NETKO

The sisters are leaving! This is the rumor being passed around Collegeville these days, and it's true. All three C.P.P.S. sisters, Sr. Anthonita, Sr. Mary Audry, and Sr. Delphine, will leave St. Joe next June for other educational frontiers.

Sister Anthonita has been elected to the general council of her community, the group which advises Mother General on important decisions. As such, she must remain close to headquarters, and so she will teach at the University of Dayton extension—the motherhouse—next fall. This summer she will teach cultural history at St. John's college, Cleveland, O.

The owner of a doctor's degree from Catholic University, Sister Anthonita did post-graduate study in Middle East and Russian history at Georgetown University. She taught history and political science at the U.D. extension before she came to St. Joe five years ago. Her students will testify that she is a walking encyclopedia with a ready command of the English language.

Sister Mary Audrey, the head of the division of Elementary Education at St. Joe, will teach a graduate course in the philosophy of education next summer at the University of Dayton campus. In the fall she will be a regular member of the U.D. faculty in the graduate division in the field of education.

Sister Audrey taught grammar and high school before she was made Supervisor of Schools of the community, a post she held for some time. Sister earned her B.A. and M.A. degrees from U.D. and she will be officially awarded her doctorate in education next June. She taught a course in educational psychology at Catholic University and later came to St. Joe, where she has been for two years.

Sister Delphine will be the first C.P.P.S. sister to teach full time at St. John's College in Cleveland. She will teach both undergraduate and graduate level courses in English there next September. Before that she will teach sacred art in summer school at the U.D. extension.

Besides English, Sister has taught philosophy, education, history, and art; and she has had three years of grammar school and four years of high school teaching experience.

On the college level, she taught at the U.D. extension for several years and conducted an extension in San Luis Rey, Cal., before she came to St. Joe, where she has taught English for two years. She earned her doctorate at Catholic University and has done post-doctorate work at Notre Dame.

Mr. Edward Fischer will address graduates; 10 graduate in absentia

By Y. J. THOELE

Thirty-one St. Joseph's seniors will receive bachelor's degrees at graduation exercises on January 29. The commencement address will be given by Mr. Edward Fischer, an alumnus and former member of the St. Joseph's faculty.

Mr. Fischer will also receive the Alumni Merit Award from the administration and faculty of the college. The award, created last year, is conferred periodically to St. Joseph's alumni as a standard of recognition for the work they have done in their field.

Mr. Fischer is currently an associate professor at the University of Notre Dame. For the past seven years he has been motion picture and television critic for Ave Maria, a national weekly magazine published at Notre Dame. He is the author of Screen Arts, a recently published guide to film and TV appreciation.

Tentatively, the seniors who will be awarded degrees are: Richard L. Burns, in absentia-general business; Gerald R. Brudenell, marketing; Donald T. Buckley, in absentia-engineering; Stanley R. Bumbales, in absentia-marketing; Thomas D. Carpenter, sociology; Richard L. Courtney, in absentia-engineering; Michael R. Crosse, general business.

Mardi Gras

Tickets for the annual Mardi Gras dance on Feb. 11 will go on sale at the beginning of the second semester. They will be priced at $5.00 apiece.

The Bobby Christian orchestra, featuring vocalist Vernyle Christian, will play at the dance. This will be the Christian band's fourth appearance at St. Joe.

According to social chairman Dave Hoover, the theme of the dance will be "The Roaring Twenties," and the Rec hall will be transformed into a New Orleans speak-easy of the period. Costumes will be mandatory.

Semester grads feted by alumni

St. Joseph's Alumni Association feted those seniors who will graduate in January this year with a cocktail party and a dinner in the faculty dining room last Monday evening. Mr. Rudolph L. Volz, director of the Alumni Association, was in charge of the affair.

Mr. Robert Connelly, Jr., a member of the board of directors of the Alumni Association, represented the president of the association at the dinner.

Mr. Volz said that a similar affair is planned for the seniors who will graduate next June.

Thievery reflects on name of students as well as college

Petit thievery is a difficult problem to handle in any institution the size of St. Joseph's. When 1100 young men are thrown together in such close social contact, there is bound to be a certain number of minor thefts because of the great diversity of personalities and the frequent opportunities for stealing which arise.

Gym clothes disappear from the fieldhouse, books disappear from the cafeteria and Rec hall shelves, money left in desk drawers is not to be found a few hours later. Instances like these have always cropped up from time to time at every college in the country, Catholic or not. Very rarely has a theft at St. Joseph's involved a considerable loss of money.

These petit thefts are practically impossible to prevent. And it is equally impossible to detect the guilty party in such a crime because the opportunity to take a book from the cafeteria shelves or to steal a pair of gym shoes from the fieldhouse locker-room is afforded to everyone who passes by. In effect, there are at least 1100 suspects for each case.

But recently there have been a number of not-so-petit thefts involving a bit of malicious damage to property that belongs neither to the college nor to the student. Last week, the pay telephone in Halas hall was ripped off the wall and carried away during a basketball game in the fieldhouse. The same thing happened twice in Gallagher during the first semester.

Supposedly, the phones were taken for the sake of the nickels, dimes, and quarters in them. But it seems there must be an easier way to steal money than this, if money is the only object. These thefts necessitated acts of willful, malicious destruction.

It would also appear that the same individual or individuals is guilty of each instance of phone-stealing. As a result of his actions, there will be no more phones in Halas or Gallagher this year. The phone in Gallagher was replaced only to be taken again, so there doesn't seem to be much percentage in having the phones repaired again and again. This only provides the thief with a steady source of income.

In a sense, it is the responsibility of the students living in Halas and Gallagher to discover and expose the thief, not only because he is stealing, but because he is doing a good deal of damage to the reputation of St. Joseph's college. And when the college's reputation receives a mark against it, it reflects on the students of the college, you and me.

Thinking men prefer

By JOE MURRAY

As exam time approaches, the moans and groans about the prevailing conditions at St. Joseph's become more incessant. These complaints are many and varied; to each person concerned, they seem to be justified. Just what do you think the major problems are here at St. Joseph's?

Bob Ramesh, senior Whiting, Ind.

I believe the biggest problem now is the lack of cooperation. We have excellent leaders in the Student Council and in individual clubs and classes. But there is one thing missing—co-operation from the rest of the student body. Where is that cheer at the games, where is that help when work is needed to accomplish successful dances or other activities, and above all, where is that spirit? Let's all work together to build this spirit to what it used to be. Don't be an individualist!

Larry Blais, sophomore, Chicago, Ill.

One of the biggest problems on campus is the lack of activities available for the student who has some free time. The latter is very rare since most of us are loaded down with studies, not for our majors, but for the ridiculous required courses which seem to take up most of our time. I came to college to get a well-rounded education, not to become an intellectual hermit!

Ted "Navy" Sabados, junior, Cleveland, O.

One of the biggest problems on campus is the lack of the virtue of charity. Very few ever take the other person's rights into consideration before acting. Most just do what they want, when they want to do it, and without any regard for those they trample on.

Mike Mistretta, freshman, Ramsey, N. J.

The first problem at St. Joe's is the lack of social activities. There just isn't enough to do to satisfy the average collegian. The second is the lack of school spirit. Let's let the players know we're with them, not against them. The third problem is found in our prefect system. The system in theory is good, but I think the school should use more discretion in choosing the prefects.

Tony Brown, sophomore, Pontiac, Mich.

I believe the most formidable problem is that concerning registration. I feel that once prerequisite courses have been fulfilled, students should be permitted to take upper level courses pertaining to their major field of study. By doing this, many students who are planning on transferring could transfer these valuable credits and not have to make them up elsewhere.

Steve Schneider, freshman, South Bend, Ind.

I think the biggest problem is the mass card system. Whether a student attends Mass or not is or should be a matter between himself and God. The present system of checking on Mass attendance is nothing more than grade-school regimentation. The mass card system does nothing more than belittle one's status as a college student.

Joe Whalen, freshman, Penfield, Ill.

The biggest problem on campus is the lack of social activities. Here at St. Joe's, it is all work and no play. I also feel that if they are going to have mixers, they should have enough girls.

Eberhard Gabriel, sophomore, Westmont, Ill.

There seems to be a lack of activity over the weekends. The students who do not go home, are faced with the problem of searching for a means of relaxation, to ease the tension encountered during the week. As the Chicago American so aptly put it, the college is located in the middle of nowhere, with one theatre and one bowling alley in which to let loose. We need more student activity instead of individual activity.

Patrick Bresnahan, sophomore, South Whitley, Ind.

Students of St. Joe seem to lack an interest in keeping the campus grounds and floors of the hall clean. Take a look around and notice all the litter on the ground and the cigarette butts on the floors.

What kind of impression does this make on visitors to the campus?

Reviews at random

By DAN ZAWILA

Mixers come and mixers go. Some are fun, some are terrible, and most of them are farces. But that's to be expected when the male and female egos clash.

Raleigh hall was the scene of such a socio-cultural battle last Saturday night. The place was packed. The lights were down low and smoke filled the room. Somewhere in the distance a band peeled off popular notes. As time went on the entire affair took on the air of an enchanted evening from a Mad comic book.

The first step at any mixer is to try to dance. But before you can dance, you have to find a girl. Here is the problem.

If you're the aggressive type, you'll charge up to any girl and ask her to dance. Of course you'll be taking a chance, because she may be 6' and you're only 5' 7". What do you do? Be casual, look up, smile, and say something interesting.

Dancing at mixers is an art in itself. It goes something like one, two, bump . . . one, bump . . . bump . . . two, bump . . . dance much? But after a while you get used to it, and learn to sway instead of shuffling your feet.

Just about everyone was at the mixer, from Corina to Eliot Ness. If you mingled in the crowd long enough you'd meet people like Smith, White, Barrett, Corina, Jones, Bond, Corina, Kunio, Gorwski, Keane, Corina. . . . As one gentleman fittingly stated, "I don't believe your name is Hussey!"

This mixer was very well chaperoned, though, I must admit. Four out of five girls were entrusted with this inviolate duty, and you began to wonder if any girls, just girls, came along.

The idle chatter ranged from Einstein's theory of relativity to "don't sweat the small stuff." Just sitting at one of the tables, innocently minding your own business you'd hear choice tid-bits like, "Now, for the last time, a Puma is a tiger—not a wolf!" Or, "I didn't know they taught jiu jitsu at girls' colleges."

Well, just as things were really starting to get interesting, they turned on the lights. I think that was the biggest shock of the evening. But, all . . . things must come to an end.

Trackman asks for promised repairs as season nears

Dear Editor,

Last spring, our Athletic Director promised a new track, and for this spring. As yet, nothing has been done to provide a decent track for spring competition. What happened?

No coach can give a successful track season on this present bunch of loose cinders and rocks. And where are the hurdles?

Anyone with Accounting 13 or elementary budgeting could tell that the expenses of these needed improvements can be spread over several years.

Also, I hope, if TRACK is really a varsity sport, we don't have to buy or "beg" our own track shoes again this year.

Let's have some TRACK action NOW.

Sincerely,

A trackman, I hope

Puma Reflections

By JOHN B. GRIFFIN

While wandering through the college bookstore a few days ago I came upon a most interesting sight. Plastered about the local "Bargain Center" were multi-colored (stark black and white) signs proclaiming "A New Indiana Shoplifting Law" with a conviction on the first offense bringing fines up to $200 and up to one year in jail. An addition read "Shoplifters will be Prosecuted."

Now let us look at a hypothetical case. A student, for instance Dean Van Liersburg, ambles up to the check-up counter with a handful of articles, a couple of pens, a decal, some typing paper, and an eraser. Absentmindedly Dean forgets to pay for the eraser and on the way out is nabbed by the watchdog of eternal vigilance, the bouncer of the bookstore, Jim Ellsworth.

Dean is then held for trial. Perhaps this point is stretched a bit but who knows what this may lead to. The accused may soon be thrown in chains in the dark, damp cellar of the bookstore rivaling the "Black Hole" of Calcutta. But, looking back, this must be the individual attention that we have heard is available at St. Joe.

In last week's Stuff there was an article about Willie Achebe in which it was mentioned that Willie lives 15,000 miles away. As the world is a supposed 25,000 miles around it would appear that Willie is going home a few thousand miles out of his way.

No David, those points I brought out previously were not accusations but what I would term helpful hints. As for using initials to keep other columnists from stealing your material, I can't steal it because I can't even decipher the maze of capital letters. I did not think that my comment would appear as such a Goliath that David would pluck such smooth stones to cast my way in his last group of links from the cuff.

There is a movement afoot to send Dave Hoover to his home in Puerto Rico for the semester break.

If as many Joemen leave as it has been rumored the fight song may be changed to Exodus.

Junior Al Joseforsky has switched his major to speech. The loud, boisterous Al also may become a stalwart on the Debate team.

Bullet Bobby Ramesh must have blue blood in his veins because he is going to be St. Joseph's representative as Mixer King at the next St. Francis mixer. Tom Webster will be his campaign manager.

If it is of interest to Ron Holstein, tickets are now on sale for the next Barkley Social, and a certain Ball State coed has been invited by Quicke Mickey Clark.

SJ faces rematch with Bulldogs during break

By HUGH MARTINELLI

The Pumas of St. Joe meet the Butler Bulldogs on the Butler court during semester break. The Bulldogs have been coming up fast since the Hoosier Classic, winning six of their last seven starts. They now hold a 8-7 record but they have a very respectable 4-2 record against the gigantic Big Ten schools. They now stand atop the ICC with a 3-0 record, already having disposed of defending ICC champions Evansvill 93-82, DePauw 77-72, and St. Joe.

Coach Tony Hinkle's stellar sophomore guard, 5-8 Gerry Williams, has a 15.8 points per game average. Williams and another sophomore, Tom Bowman, 6-4 forward with a 12.8 points per game average, have been carrying the Bulldogs. Other starters include three returning junior letterman: Ken Freeman, 6-3 forward with a 7.1 points per game average is a strong rebounder behind Bowman; Don Wilson, 6-5 center has a 12.1 points per game average; and Williams' running mate at guard, 5-9 Dick Haslam, has an 8.7 points per game average.

Evansville's always tough Purple Aces invade the Puma fieldhouse Feb. 2. The Aces have played under .500 but their opponents have included such powerhouses as Iowa, Utah, Notre Dame, Purdue and the No. 1 team in the nation, defending NCAA champion Ohio State. The Aces have especially missed All-American Ed Smallwood.

This year the team is built around two returning starters, Dale Wise and P. M. Sanders. Puma fans will remember Sanders as the Aces' little man who dunked the ball. Wise is a 6-4 jumping jack currently leading the ICC with a 24.3 points per game average. He is second in the rebounding race with 17 per game. Sanders is a hard driving guard who leads the fast break.

Other starters include Walt Deal, 6-6 and strong off the boards, 6-4 Jim Nosset, forward who uses a one-hand push shot to advantage, and Marvin Pruett, a sophomore guard who led the freshman team last year.

The Purple Aces lost to Butler but the defending ICC champs have beaten their other two ICC foes. They squeezed by Ball State 62-58 but crushed Valparaiso 105-80.

A high scoring DePauw team comes to the Puma court on Saturday, Feb. 4. The Tigers have been averaging 95.3 points in ICC competition. They are led by Herb Spier, 6-5 junior center, who has a 19.6 points per game average in the conference and Dale Anderson, 6-0 junior forward now holding an 18.0 points per game average. St. Joe hopes to avenge their earlier defeat by the Tigers 103-84.

Last year the Pumas crushed the Tigers 89-69, only to be beaten on the DePauw court 97-87. In the series the Tigers have won 7 and lost 7.

DePauw is a very strong team off the boards, averaging a conference, leading 69.3 rebounds per game. Larry Leas, 6-2 junior forward, Larry Salmela, 6-1 junior guard round out the squad. Salmela leads the ICC in field goal percentage, with a sizzling .590.

The Pumas are in for a rugged three game engagement in the next three weeks.

St. Joe wrestlers drop 31-3 contest to Indiana State

By JOHN KEANE

The St. Joseph grapplers went down to defeat for the second time in three starts Saturday, Jan. 14, against the defending Little State champs, Indiana Central.

At the 123 lb. class lack of a varsity man forced the St. Joe squad to forfeit and freshman Joe Donnellan was pinned in an exhibition match.

George Foss, a candidate for all-conference honors at 133, gave the Pumas their only victory of the afternoon when he decided his man 6-4. Mike Mettler at 137 was outpointed 4-0 and Jim Delaney at 147 was decided 11-4.

Mickey Kaminsky, who was wrestling his first match of the year, looked good although he was pinned by the two-time Little State champ Martin, at 157. Plagued by injuries in the 167 lb. division, St. Joe was forced to forfeit and George Riehle, a freshman wrestling for experience, was

New Puma offense flunks against Butler

By RON CONDON

Introducing a brand of basketball not often seen in the ICC, St. Joe gave the visiting Butler Bulldogs a run for their money in the Puma fieldhouse last Tuesday night before falling to superior outside shooting 73-63. Young Gerry Williams, outstanding 5-9 sophomore, and 6-4 Tom Bowman, a junior forward paced the Butler win.

High point man for the evening was the Pumas' sophomore center, Jerry Patchman, who paced the scoring with 10 field goals and three of five bonus throws. He was followed closely by Puma forward Ron Holstein with eight field goals and five of six charity tosses for 21 points. Patchman also led both teams in rebounds with 14. Al Whitlow had 11.

The highly touted Williams was the leading Bulldog scorer with 18 points. Williams, although only 5-9, also lead the Bulldogs in the rebounding department with nine pinned in an exhibition match.

Both John Keane at 177 and Vic (Tiny) Roos at heavyweight were pinned to close a gloomy afternoon for the wrestling squad.

The final team score stood at Indiana Central 31, St. Joseph's 3.

The wrestlers will meet Lake Forest on Feb. 3 at Lake Forest fieldhouse at 7:30 p.m. Lake Forest has a strong team back from last year when their season record stood at 6-2-1.

The following day, Saturday, the grapplers travel to Ball State to challenge a team, considered by many as the team to beat in this year's conference race. Last year Ball State finished second in the Little State tournament following behind champion Indiana Central by only three team points.

Ball State's team will be strengthened by the return of two conference champs, Nick Kovack at 130 and Al Thomas at heavyweight.

and was followed in both figures by Tom Bowman who had 14 points and eight rebounds to show for the evening. Center Don Wilson had 13 points and eight rebounds.

The normally fast breaking Pumas slowed to a dog trot and worked the ball well trying for the better shot and causing worry to the opposition. With this strategy the Pumas broke the scoring ice and kept Butler from taking the lead until 8:01 remained in the first half.

With the half time score 31-25 in favor of the visitors the Pumas quickly netted three baskets to knot the score at 31-31, with only three minutes of the final period gone. After that the Pumas were only able to even the game once and that was at 33-33.

With the fast breaking and sure shooting of Williams and Bowman the Bulldogs of Coach Tony Hinkle raced to a 10 point spread with ten minutes of the last period gone and then enlarged this to a 17 point gap before the Pumas again caught fire and lowered the margin of victory to 10.

Intramural Scoreboard

By BILL FORTIN

Harry Wismer would be the first to admit that the establishment of a new league in the world of sports takes time, and that support for a new league is something that grows and develops over a number of years, not something that sprouts up overnight. This gloomy prospect of slow establishment might apply to the new IM wrestling program, but there really is no necessity for it in this case. IM wrestling needs support all right, but the only kind of support it needs is participation, and that's free.

It would seem that the students who have an interest in wrestling would want to join the program now, especially the underclassmen who could grow with the program and at the same time develop into pretty good grapplers by the time they are seniors. There must be many who would agree that a successful intramural wrestling program would be one heck-of-a-swell-thing to have at St. Joe's, including J.F.K.

The basketball standings show a total of nine teams which still have perfect records as the middle of the regular season approaches. Although it's still a five-team race in the A league, the Bennett A.A.'s have the best chance to finish on top since they have already played the other three first division teams and were able to emerge with two wins and a tie. The most deceptive statistic in this league is the record of the Noll Knotheads.

It will be the Aquinas Alkies and the Noll Buckeyes down to the wire in the B league with Bill Kennedy leading the Bucks with his 20 points per game average while Danny Gallagher of the Alkies heads their attack with 16 points per game. Any indications of the outcome of the Sophomore League with its good number of top caliber teams are still in the distance. One of the characteristics most notable among these top teams is fine strength under the boards.

Ken Plieman of the Xavier C Team has been heard saying, "It's not how you play the game that counts, it's winning." The Drexel Untouchables in the Freshman C League owe their success to the most balanced scoring attack in any league, as each of the starting five usually score in the double figures. The same is true of the East Seifert Guns and the Scooters from the same hall in the Freshman D League. The top IM scorer in the school is Lynn Weber of the Seifert Five Plus Five who is averaging an incredible 28 points per game.

Although no definite dates have been set for the ping pong tournament yet, the fieldhouse office is now accepting applications from those who wish to participate.

Ball State wins over Pumas 86-74

Ball State's Cardinals handed the Pumas their fifth straight conference loss last Saturday 86-74 in the St. Joe fieldhouse. Thus, the Cardinals, who had been tied with St. Joe for the ICC cellar spot, moved themselves into sixth place with their conference victory.

The Pumas jumped off to an early 12-2 lead in the first three minutes of the game. However, the Cardinals managed to put together an effective attack during the last few minutes of the first period and came out on top of the scoring column at the end of the first half 46-42.

The St. Joe cagers traded basket for basket with the State squad for the first few minutes of the second half. Mike Readnour, State forward, then got off two quick field goals and started the scoring attack that broke the Pumas' back.

In the second half the Cardinals hit on 15 of 30 attempts from the field for an even .500 percentage, while SJC connected on only 12 of 28.

Overall, the Ball Staters shot .532 from the field, as compared with the .441 percentage of the Pumas.

High point men for the Pumas were Al Whitlow and Jerry Patchman with 20 and 19 points respectively. John Kunze and Dan Thurston led the scoring of the Cardinals with 20 points each.

Ron Holstein and Jim Crowley

St. Joe co-captain Al Whitlow was called for charging on this drive against the Cardinals of Ball State.

Club News

The Central Indiana club held its first annual Christmas Dance Friday, Dec. 30 at the Continental Hotel in Indianapolis.

Lively music was provided by Tom Moriarity and his band. The attendance at the dance included members of the C.I.C., their friends, their parents, and members of the alumni.

The officers and dance committee were impressed by the conduct and enthusiasm of everyone, particularly that of the parents who, as a result of the dance, are now forming a parents' club.

However, the turnout was not as high as expected, and consequently, the treasury will have a deficit starting second semester. At its next meeting to be held after the start of the second semester, the club will nominate and elect officers. Plans for a forthcoming Easter dance will also be discussed.

Anyone from the central Indiana area interested in joining the C.I.C. is invited and urged to attend the first meeting next semester.

Water tower undergoes repairs; conservation of water urged

by MIKE DOYLE

In the latter part of December and the beginning of January the water tower became a center of attraction, and the workmen swinging easily about the tower in their bucket seats were the cause of much conversation.

Periodically throughout the years, because of the ravages of time and weather, the tower has needed repairing and painting. The last major overhauling was given to it in 1956. At that time a new frost jacket was applied to the riser pipe.

However the wind damaged the casing and water seeped in and rotted the insulation necessitating the latest repairs. 1958 was a bad year for the tower. During that year high winds twice, first in June and again in August, removed the roof from the tower and placed it on top of Aquinas hall.

In repairing the tower this year a new aluminum frost jacket was first put on. Then the inside of the tank was examined and found to be in need of repair. The tank was emptied and the pitted spots, 3500 of them, were welded. Also, 1300 rivots were welded and tightened. Far from being a complete repair job, this rivoting and welding fixed only the bottom saucer plate and the first plate above the saucer plate.

The college is not dependent upon Rensselaer for its water supply. Its water is pumped from two six inch surface wells, 40 feet deep, which are situated on the west side of the gravel pits. These shallow wells stay above the rock formation and for this reason they are free of the sulfur which is found in the water taken from deeper wells in this area.

Fr. Paul Wellman stated that the school uses as much as 100,000 gallons of water a day and mentioned that the students should try to conserve the water supply. It's not that the college does not have the facilities to pump this quantity of water. The pumps for the wells are capable of pumping 300 gallons of water per minute apiece, which is over eight times as much water as is used.

However the ground will not give up such large quantities of water for a very long time. For the last few years the water-table for the area has been falling. Should the water-table fall below the level of the school's surface wells, deep wells would have to be utilized and this would mean having sulfur in the water.
